South Ossett Infants Academy

It was so lovely to see the children celebrating World Book Day this week. Some of the children chose to wear pyjamas (as did some of the staff) and then there was a range of different book characters that the children dressed up as. Some Ossett Academy children came over in the afternoon to read stories to the EYFS children. It is so lovely when the 2 schools can come together on occasions such as this. Please see Facebook where we will share some of the photographs from the day. Thank you for supporting this event!
